

TREES FROM SEEDS

Thacka Beck Nature Reserve

Sat 16th November 9:30am - 12:30pm

Join us for a workshop to collect tree seeds from the wild and learn how to prepare and propagate them. Enjoy a short autumn walk, discover the trees that are producing seeds, gather some and learn how to prepare them and to grow them into wonderful trees.

We'll meet to collect seeds at 9:30am at Thacka Beck, Penrith.

We will then move to the Community Tree Nursery on Gilwilly at 11am for hands-on preparation of the seeds and guidance on how to grow them successfully.

Everybody welcome, no experience or equipment needed but dress for the weather and potentially muddy ground.

WHERE TO MEET:

By the signboard by the triangle / SW corner of the pond in the middle of Thacka Beck Nature Reserve. All paths into the reserve wind their way here.
